Lights at Night Cut Crime Ratio, States Sheriff

Statistical studies and field surveys being conducted by the Sheriff's Department are revealing a very interesting correlation between the increase in lighting and the decrease in crime, reported Sheriff Peter J. Pitchess.

The November "Burn a Light" statistical report has shown a 19 per cent decrease in the overall rate of the ten crimes being studied, over November of last year.

Field surveys during November have reported an approximate 20 per cent increase in the number of homes and businesses keeping lights on all night. Businesses have shown the greater increase in night-time lighting—25 to 30 per cent—while home lighting has risen 10 to 15 per cent.

Sheriff Pitchess stated: "These figures are not conclusive, and the studies will be continued to obtain further data on the effect of the 'Burn a Light' Program. We will be watching to see if this relationship between the increase in lighting and the decrease in crime will continue at such a close pace. We can only hope that every person in Los Angeles County will do his part in this fight against crime, by keeping a light on all night, every night."
